ZatPark – Stand F36 Subject Access Request Builder

With the imminent enactment of the General Data Protection Regulations on May 25th this year, the Parking Enforcement Industry faces a potential influx of Subject Access Requests in response to the removal of the £10 fee payable by the applicant. The many online forums are already heavily promoting the application of Subject Access Requests with each appeal. This could obviously cause a huge amount of extra work for parking enforcement companies.

To assist ZatPark clients and ensure compliance, we are releasing our Subject Access Request Builder - enabling our clients to quickly and efficiently extract the relevant information and build a PDF bundle containing appropriate information to be sent to the applicant. The system walks the operator through each area of ZatPark which may contain subject data and allows for the selection of relevant information, documents and images.

Each request is logged and can be recreated as required. The access to this feature controlled by a system permission which can be granted to users by the clients nominated system administrators.
